BLUE & WHITE TEAMS SELECTED FOR PENN STATE FANTASY FOOTBALL CAMP GAME AT BEAVER STADIUM

28 Players from Eight States Run Out Onto Their Field of Dreams on Saturday June 11

STATE COLLEGE, PA – June 10, 2011 – There is nothing quite like game day. The Penn State college football fanatics who are realizing their dreams of being a Nittany Lions player this week will highlight their unique experience when they run out at Beaver Stadium to play ball on Saturday, June 11 at 1.30pm.

The 28 members of the sixth annual Penn State Football Fantasy Camp, which kicked off on June 8, will line up in either blue or white Penn State game jerseys to contest a semi-contact flag football game and showcase the skills they have acquired during their time in State College.

The popular series of college football fantasy camps offers Nittany Lions fans a chance to experience football where legends have gone before them – in the locker room, on the practice fields and on the hallowed field of Beaver Stadium.

Having been put through their paces and taught technique and a series of plays by Penn State Fantasy Camp coaches, the players – whose ages range from 28 to 72 – will meet on the field with bragging rights at stake.

“All 28 players are eager to run through the tunnel on Saturday,” said organizer Patrick Steenberge of Global Football. “Legendary Penn State head coach Joe Paterno met all the campers at Thursday afternoon’s practice, encouraging them all to enjoy their special day in Beaver Stadium and it is wonderful to see grown men humbled simply by his presence.

“The teams were then drafted by the coaching staff on Thursday evening, a somewhat heated session as players were discussed, analyzed and selected. Jay Paterno and Kermit Buggs, who will coach the Blue Team, went for youth, while Larry Johnson and Bill Kenney seemed to draft experience for the White Team. The best decisions will be proven on the field Saturday.”

The members of the 2011 Penn State Football Fantasy Camp were given instruction on the practice field and in the classroom by Nittany Lions coaches Jay Paterno, Bill Kenney, Larry Johnson, Kermit Buggs, Mike McQueary and Galen Hall.

“The Penn State coaches and former players coaches do a fantastic job here for us every year,” added Steenberge. “They completely embrace the opportunity to make the dreams of these super-fans of Penn State football come true and then they get a real kick out of coaching to win on Saturday.”

The 2010 camp features men from Pennsylvania, California, Georgia, Maryland, New York, Ohio, Texas and Virginia.
